DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-69 are pending.
2. The Change of Address filed 11/18/02 has been entered as paper no. 8.
3. The IDS filed 06/02/03 has been entered as paper no. 9.

Drawings

4. New corrected drawings are required in this application because Figure 8 has element 69 missing and Figure 9 has element 101 missing. The Specification on page 17, line 23 references "..., then blocks 100-102 maybe bypassed." This step is omitted in the drawing. Applicant is advised to employ the services of a competent patent draftsman outside the Office, as the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office no longer prepares new drawings. The corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The requirement for corrected drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. Claims 44-54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In particular,
 - A. Claim 44 is not sufficiently precise due to the combining of two separate statutory classes of invention in a single claim. The preamble of claim 44 refers to a system, but the body of the claim discusses the specifics of method steps (ex. a database directory containing user information and a user community administration tool to manage the user information), and subsequently the claim deals with the specifics of a system (ex. a first computing unit).

B. Claims 45-54 are rejected as being dependent on claim 44 as discussed above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

6. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

7. Claims 1-23 and 27-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as non-statutory. The method claims as presented do not claim a technological basis in the body of the claim. Without a claimed basis, the claim may be interpreted in an alternative as involving no more than a manipulation of an abstract idea and therefore non-statutory under 35 U.S.C. 101. In contrast, a method claim that includes in the body of the claim at least one structural/functional interrelationship which can only be computer implemented is considered to have technological bases [See Ex parte Bowman, 61 USPQ2d 1669, 1671 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 2001) –used only for content and reasoning since not precedential].

8. Claims 24-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as non-statutory. The method and system claims as presented do not claim a technological basis in the body of the claim. Without a claimed basis, the claim may be interpreted in an alternative as involving no more than a manipulation of an abstract idea and therefore non-statutory under 35 U.S.C. 101. In contrast, a method claim that includes in the body of the claim at least one structural/functional interrelationship which can only be computer implemented is considered to have technological bases [See Ex parte Bowman, 61 USPQ2d 1669, 1671 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 2001) –used only for content and reasoning since not precedential]. According to the preamble of claim 24, it cannot be determined whether the claims are method claims or system claims. Since the body of the claim has no technological basis it is assumed the claims are method claims. Suggestion to overcome the 35 U.S.C. 101 rejection: Either have the preamble read “A computer-implemented method for providing delegated administration of a user community” or “A client system for providing delegated administration of a user community, comprising:” and for the body of the claim to read “at the computer, specifying the user community ...”.

9. Claims 55-69 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as non-statutory. The system claims as presented do not claim a technological basis in the body of the claims. Without a claimed basis, the claim may be interpreted in an alternative as involving no more than a manipulation of an abstract idea and therefore non-statutory under 35 U.S.C. 101. In contrast, a method claim that includes in the body of the claim at least one structural/functional interrelationship which can only be computer implemented is considered to have technological bases [See Ex parte Bowman, 61 USPQ2d 1669, 1671 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 2001) –used only for content and reasoning since not precedential].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

10. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

11. Claims 44-54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 101 the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

35 USC 101 requires that in order to be patentable the invention must be a “new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof” (emphasis added). Applicants’ claims mentioned above are intended to embrace or overlap two different statutory classes of invention as set forth in 35 USC 101. The claims begin by discussing a system (ex. Preamble of claim 44), the body of the claim discusses the specifics of method steps, and subsequently the claim then deals with the specifics of a system, a first computing unit (see above rejection of claims under 35 USC 112, second paragraph, for specific details regarding this issue). “A claim of this type is precluded by the express language of 35 USC 101 which is drafted so as to set forth the statutory classes of invention in the alternative only”, Ex parte Lyell (17 USPQ2d 1548).
